

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method of addressing and configuring a remote device implement a dynamic device addressing and configuration protocol. Equipment such as industrial automation devices may be dynamically coupled to a communications network, providing flexibility and redundancy in network device configuration. Industrial automation devices may be assigned both network address information as well as operational parameters according to a dynamic protocol.